1.4.75
a Lesson in the University of The New Covenant
Theodore Cottingham, February 12, 2006 10:15am in coffeeshop
www.unc.bz

1. What will you do with the words I give you today? What value will you place on them? What will you let them show you? What will you let them do in/with you today? Bring you salvation, healing, deliverance? Let them crash into other beliefs and bring light to darkness?

2. What beliefs will you protect and which ones will you let be placed under the light of My life, the life of My light, the life of My life, the light of My light, yea, the word of My Father that is who/where? Yea, I love you deeply. Just for reading these words and giving Me place/space/consideration that I speak with My creation like this/that, yea, and how do I speak to you My Friend reading this, hearing this? Yea, do you know? Have you considered? Have you let the channel, river, come flooding through your mind from My mind that is in you already? Yea see what I have said/asked and let Me speak more and let me show you who is you and who is me and who we are and who our father is and will you let me take you to heights unknown by man previously that father, our father, our father, our father has for us to roam/play/know and do/be his will in? Will you. I pray so. I Am. Are you?

3. I love you and I give you me and is there another in your life besides the one that gives you life and breath? Is there not? What makes you think you might could possibly have life/breath/existence apart from me who made you, created you, gave you life, breathed my breath into you before breath was considered breath, before worlds were considered worlds, before you were, you were. See.

4. I love you and I give you me and why should you consider yourself apart from me when we are one. And the only way you separate yourself from me is to separate yourself from me. See what I have said. And see what your thoughts do to/for you and what they take you into and what they keep you out of. Please. And where is the kingdom of heaven? And what is it for? And what shall you do with it, Zion? I love you and give you me.

5. And why capitalize me and not me when you don't capitalize you and you are who? And I am who? Me? And can you not see me right in the middle of these words that bring you thoughts day after day and night after night and message after message and kiss you I do, touch you I do, reveal myself I do, and I don't do it with capital letters rigor established by layered hierarchies; I do it by laying myself before you day after day, night after night, message after message, where I reveal myself and my love for you and show you who I am, what I am, who you are, what you are made up of and how you can roam/access my kingdom, my kingdom, the kingdom of heaven, the kingdom of heaven within you, about you, and is all around you in others and, and, and, say now, is there any limit to what I will show you and reveal to you my creation? No. There is no limit. See. Believe. Become what I am/have saying/said.

6. I love you deeply and I give you me and there is no other than me. There is no other than me. There is no other than me. See. And if you are willing to see, you will see the kingdom as/like no other, for there is no limits of demarcated boundaries to keep you out. I am revealing all so you will enter, enter, enter my fullness, fullness, fullness, and help you operate in fullness by knowing/believing/receiving my fullness, all in knowing that I am your door and you are my fullness, you are my fullness, you are my fullness; if; if, if and only if, you surrender into all we have for you. We? Yes, we are many and we are one. See, behold, become. You are. You have. Will you again? See. Thank you. Many of us lay our lives down for you to bring you father's words/heart/love/life. We are I Am. We are one. We are one. Are you one. And all of us being one, altogether we are one. What are you? You are your choices. You are your beliefs. You are your limitations, for in surrender we have given you none. We have given you us, and what are we? The heart of our father. Our father that includes you? Yes, absolutely. You and I have the same father. There is one father. I love you. Do you love me? Do you love our father? Are you willing to see his heart and feel his love today? Are you willing to feel the words of his love?

7. What are you going to do with my words this day? Eat them and let them bring you freedom beyond all freedom thought to exist in freedom as freedom truly is, with no limits in the kingdom of heaven that transcends this world but exists in it but not subject to its limitations nor principles nor boundaries?

8. What will you do with my words this day that I give you me?
9. What will you do with my words that I give you, into you, in to you, that you are?
10. What will you see/be this day with my words?
11. What place/space will you give my words, and not just this set of words in this message, but the words that are in you that I give you/I am, and will you let them forth, will you let them onto paper and onto digitized formats to share widely with bodies many in places many, far and away far, and many wait upon/for?

12. How can I use you?
How can my word come forth?
You choose.
You let.
I love you dearly/deeply this day/moment.

13. Please see me in you and the kingdom of heaven in you, about you, and all around you, and let my word/words come forth and be not willing to fail, not; be willing to fail/mature and quest into me no matter what, realizing that what matters so much in the world does not/is not, matter to me. I your heart see. I your heart am, if surrendered.

14. Thank you for considering my words this day and not unto perfection ascribe hoping to be, escaping all consideration/criticism by others who focus on matter other than mine. Let me forth. Let me speak. I am speaking. I give you my words/breath day after day, time after time, sunrise after sunrise I give you my words/thoughts. Please write. Take your pen and write. Arm your computer and write and share my lovely with my lovely. My lovely? My surrendered. I love you.
More later. Me.